COLORADO MINERS ENGAGE IN A BATTLE

Labor Trouble Leads to a Riot at One Mine, in Which Two Lives Are Lost.

MANY NONUNION MEN WOUNDED

Force of Workmen, Surrounded. Keep Up Fight Throughout the Entire Day-Communication Is Cut Off.

Telluride, Colo., July 3.-The excite ment which has been prevailing all day over the riot at the Smuggler-Union mines is rapidly subsiding this evening. The controversy has been satisfactorily adjusted for the present and everything is quiet in Marshall and Savage Basins. The first rumor to reach town was that eight or ten had been killed, but this proved not to be true. Will Jordan was shot in the right hip, Charles Becker, superintendent of the mine, had his right arm broken and badly shattered from a bullet; Shift Boss Nicholson was shot in the head and a Mexican trimmer named J. Lujan was killed Jordan was brought to town about who were working for him on the Sheridan cump.

Most of the forenoon shots were exchanged between the miners, deputies and guards, but at 1 o'clock all was quiet with the exception of a few shots now and then. Some time this forenoon one of the cabins near the office building was blown up, but it is impossible to learn what damage, if any, was done.

About 6 o'clock this afternoon the corpse of a man was brought to town from the basin, and it was found to be John Barthtell, a Swede, who was killed at about the first shot fired. Barthtell was fighting with the union miners. The killed as far as known are:

John Barthtell, a union miner.

J. L. Lujan, a Mexican, employed as a trimmer in the mines.

Wounded:
Charles M. Becker, mine superintendent; right hip broken and badly shattered by bullet.

Charles M. Becker, mine superintendent; right hip broken and badly shattered by bullet.

W. Jordan, shift boss and Deputy Sheriff; shot through hips; no bones broken.

John Nicholson, shot through head; will probably die.

An unknown man, shot through both legs. All of the wounded except the last three were working in the mines.

Message From Union Miners, it is said, sent a man with a message to the men working with William Jordan to the effect that if they would stop work and come down the hill there would be no trouble. In response to this message, it is said, the union men were fired upon, resulting in the instant killing of Barthtell. Jordan and his crew then sought refuge in an old tunnel, and it was while running for its mouth that Jordan was shot through the hip.

During the day all kinds of rumors were current, some that fifteen men were killed. Late this evening, Doctor Sheldon, who went up early this morning, telephoned that ten men, including the four mentioned above, were injured, and that they would be sent down as rapidly as he could dress their wounds. Doctor Sheldon was shot through the hand by a stray bullet.

The Tomboy and Liberty Beil miners, who went to the Smuggler early this morning, compelling those properties to close down, returned to their respective mines at this afternoon, after it was announced that a temporary agreement had been reached between the union and Edgar Collins, the manager. This agreement is said to be that the company withdraw all men from the mines except a few sutchmen, and make he effort to resume work until the strike is amicably settled and officially defined.

morning. Since the resumption of work in the mines a feeling of bitterness and resentment has been growing against the miners who returned to work.

Mr. R. S. Agassiz and a Mr. Shaw of Boston are the principal owners of the Smuggler-Union mines.

If they put us in fall for that then we will fight the case. The employers have brought several men here under misapprehension.
